man and say: "There is a representative citizen; there is a representative Democrat; there is a man who is every inch a Senator?"

We do not believe the Democratic members of the State Legislature, upon whom rests the responsibility of choosing a Senator, will, if left to themselves, each for himself, without bias, and without undue influence, either political, social or auriferous, deliberately choose George Hearst for Senator of the United States. We have a poor enough opinion of some of the individual members, but, taking the body together, we have a better opinion of it than to suspect it of preferring to make such a wretched choice as the one in question. Let us watch results and see what the outcome will be.

Oakland and Los Angeles.

The San Francisco Chronicle prints the following editorial:

It is understood that two of the principal cities of the State, Oakland and Los Angeles, will present to the coming Legislature a bill to amend the charter of the city of Los Angeles, and to amend the charter of the city of Oakland. The bill is a measure of great importance, and it is a measure which will be of great benefit to the people of the State. ## YANKEE PIONEERS.

FIRST NEW ENGLANDERS WHO CAME TO LOS ANGELES.

An Interesting and Historically Valuable Paper by the Veteran Stephen C. Foster, Read on Fathers' Day, December 21, 1886.

Mention was made in yesterday's TIMES of an interesting paper written by Stephen C. Foster, a well-known pioneer, and read by J. W. Gillette at the celebration of the anniversary of the landing at Plymouth Rock. Mr. Foster told us no other man alive probably is so well qualified to tell of the first New Englanders who came to Los Angeles. His paper was not only interesting, but a valuable contribution to the history of southern California, and THE TIMES have the pleasure of presenting it in its entirety.

A WAR EPISODE.

Something About the Killing of Gen. Jeff. C. Davis at Louisville.

A dispatch, dated Louisville, Ky., appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat recently, which purported to give a true account of the circumstances attending and following the killing of Gen. Nelson by Gen. Jeff. C. Davis at Louisville during the war. It was a very interesting and valuable paper, and it was a paper which was of great interest to the people of the State. ## ANOTHER CASE.

THE TWO-HORSE STREET LINE TO BE TRANSFERRED.

Into a Five-Mile, Double-Track, Broad-Gauge Cable Road, and the Money Men and the Money Men.

The visit of J. W. Hellman to Los Angeles—a visit from which he has returned—was pregnant with an event of great importance to the city. The event was the transfer of the two-horse street-car line to a cable line. The transfer was a very important one, and it was a transfer which was of great importance to the people of the State.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

WANTED, AN OPERA HOUSE—REAL ESTATE.

PASADENA, Dec. 22.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Extensive arrangements are in progress for the Christmas holidays. Some homes will observe a full week of festivities.

Pasadena wants an opera house and wants it badly. Already one or two schemes are on foot toward this end and we hope they will not be allowed to rest. Properly handled there is money to be made—"Millions in it."

The Y. M. C. A. lecture course is very interesting. The one delivered last night by Rev. Dr. Breece was especially well received.

The Herald contained an article this morning concerning our railroad prospects, which is generally considered to be "sensational." One thing is almost certain, however, and that is that the ground would be unoccupied long. But which shall it be? The two jolly birds which the bold attempt to get the cash box and the Nellie Boyd entertainment were bound over for grand larceny and taken to Los Angeles. By the way, they got hold of the wrong box and not the right one, as appeared in this morning's paper.

James Blattenberg sold today 14 acres on Hill avenue, bare land, for $12,000.

MUCH MIXED.

The notorious Oxnart will Case becoming more tangled.

Yesterday's Tribune contained a story about the notorious Oxnart will case; and the publication has roused the anger of those who feel themselves misrepresented. John B. Sanchez called at THE TIMES office yesterday and stated that the story, so far as it applied to him, was a gross fabrication; that he knew nothing of the case nor of the woman; that he never met her nor offered to bring testimony in the case.

Frank Marillo writes the following statement of his side of the story: "In the Tribune of the 22d inst. appears an article concerning the suit pending under the title of 'Benita Oxnart vs. the estate of Gaston Oxnart,' in which a story is related making my mother, Benita Morillo de Espinosa, appear under the name of Benita Oxnart; and it becomes me, as the son of said lady, to state in reply that everything the above-mentioned paper asserts is false and full of personal insults. As soon as I read it I applied at the printing office and represented to Mr. Smith that the publication was an error and a misrepresentation, and I wanted to know the author of it. This was at 9 a.m., and I was discovered that they would satisfy my wishes at 3 p.m. It is my duty to say, in order that the public may know the truth, that my mother and myself had refused to become instruments to make her appear as the wife of the late Gaston Oxnart, and myself as his son, and we should speak in the courts, we took the case under consideration, and seeing that according to our conscience and the truth we were not to pursue ourselves, I like an obedient son, considering the cause of evils and injustice, my mother determined, on consulting with me, to employ Mr. Sanchez, a friend of Messrs. Broussard and Hatch to 'smash a case where there was neither justice nor right to follow.' It is stated that we were taken to a house near Santa Monica. It is a great error of the publisher or any person so informing. My stepfather, Francisco Espinosa, negotiating for the lease of some property for a year, it is his duty to take his mother and mine, like any other parent, to follow his mother. In this case neighbors, or parties in bad faith and full of envy, have tried to corrupt me and mix themselves in my business; but they may be assured that those tricksters can never corrupt the character and good conduct of the man who supports himself by his labor, despising the monetary inducements of those who, without any interest, intend to corrupt society. The courts of equity should protect a young man of my age from dishonest attorneys and corrupting agents, that they shall not plunge him into the vortex of crime, trying to lead him, for filthy lucre, break the just rights of some and sacrifice the innocence of others. The name of John Sanchez is mentioned as the instrument in the story related; it is honestly stated that neither I nor my mother know said gentleman, and the publication about him is untrue; he has never been in the office of Messrs. Broussard and Hatch in company with my mother and myself. In order to further establish what I have stated, the case must be taken before the Superior Court, and by the reliable testimony there presented we will prove the good faith, proper conduct, integrity, honesty and honesty of my mother and my humble servant. FRANK MARILLO."

Dec. 22, 1886.

THE HARD-WORKED CARRIERS.

The hard-worked carriers of Los Angeles, who are a hard-worked and faithful set of men, are likely to wait upon the gentle public about Christmas-time with a complimentary address. It is customary in the East for carriers to recognize the services of their carriers in a substantial manner about holiday-time, and the custom will bear transplanting to semi-tropical soil. Let these faithful and trusty men see that their services are well appreciated, and they will work with a better heart during the coming year.

BUSINESS.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, Wednesday, Dec. 22.

The market for Wheat during the past few days has been less active than it was earlier in the month, and a falling off in trading until after the opening of the new year would not be remarkable, as merchants

generally are not inclined to incur fresh commitments until after the new year.

Advances from abroad, however,

indicate that Europe will need all the sur-

HO FOR TOPOLOBAMPO!

WORK PROGRESSING ON THE
NEW COLONY SCHEME.A Meeting Last Night—Letters from
A. K. Owen—Difficulties of Transit
—Many Colonists Coming—Some Questions Answered.

A meeting of those interested in the Topolobampo colony scheme was held yesterday evening, Ralph E. Hoyt in the chair, W. W. Ross secretary. There were about two dozen persons present, a majority of whom were members of the society, or organization, while the others were inquirers. Half a dozen lady members present appeared to be among the most actively interested of any.

The price of composition being high in Los Angeles the name of the colony will be referred to in this article as Tompo.

Mr. Hoyt, in a few prefatory words, stated that there were now 300 persons on the colony, which is situated in the State of Sinaloa, 200 miles south of Guaymas, the present nearest railroad station. A. K. Owen, the originator of the enterprise, is at Tompo. Mr. Owen had written a book, which could be had for 30 cents. In this would be found an explanation of everything connected with the colony. Several letters had recently been received from Mr. Owen, which would now be read to the meeting.

Miss Henck then proceeded to read a letter in which Mr. Owen described his arrival at the colony by sea. The harbor was good, with five fathoms of water on the bar. He had made a trip overland to Guaymas, which was attended with considerable difficulty, owing to the roughness of the country and the troubles with the Yaqui Indians, who are at present warring with the Mexicans. Mr. Owen had made the discovery that it would be cheaper to buy burros than to hire them for a week. Those who go overland at present should go in parties of not less than 25, for mutual protection. He urged the great importance of at once purchasing a steamer, to connect Tompo with the outside world. At present, steamers would not land there, as it was not a port of entry. "The inconvenience of the country lies in reaching it," wrote Mr. Owen. He had met Jesse Grant (son of the late General), who is a member of the organization. Mrs. Jesse Grant being an officer.

Another letter from Mr. Owen was read, dated in Guaymas. In it he mentioned that ten settlers from Wisconsin had arrived. He had purchased a 20-ton boat for $800. Lumber was 4 to 5 cents a foot. With some purchased he intended to build a house, as headquarters for the engineering corps. Consul Willard, of Guaymas, had done all he could for the colonists. Gov. Torres had also issued special orders to facilitate their work. All who go to Tompo, before arrangements have been made for transport, must be PREPARED FOR DISCOMFORTS, and must take ample provisions along. Mr. Owen had arranged that a limited number of men would spread their blankets in the hotel at Guaymas, for $1 a night, and get meals for 50 cents each.

This statement caused a lady to inquire, in a somewhat horrified tone, whether there were no beds in the Mexican hotels. A member explained that there were generally beds, but that beds might probably be obtained by those of aristocratic pretensions. The chairman invited those who desired to come forward and sign the roll to do so. Nobody was obliged to go to Tompo. They were simply investigating the matter. Ten miles square, as Mr. Owen said, was the Mexican government for a city. Parties settling have to purchase stock in the enterprise—the Credit Foncier—at $10 a share. No stockholder can own more than 48 shares. The idea is that the colonists will grow rich together, no man becoming wealthy at the expense of his neighbor. There would be no such thing as monopoly, everything being carried out on the cooperative plan. The city would be managed by a board of directors, ten in number. There would be that every person, male and female, who is able, would engage in some employment. There would be no saloons and no churches, although several ministers were going there. Every one would have a right to his own views and might hold meetings in the public hall or in his own house.

A member asked whether secret societies would be allowed to erect halls for themselves. The chairman thought not.

At the request of the chairman, Mr. Buckner, who had passed a year and a half at Tompo, as civil engineer, produced a large map of Mexico and explained the location, climate, etc., of the colony. There is never less than 2½ feet of water on the bar. The climate is healthy, although very warm in summer, but cooler in the winter. In the middle of the day, during the hot season, one of the audience inquired whether it was

BETTER THAN SAN BERNARDINO, to which the chairman replied that he scarcely thought that possible. Three crops a year can be raised, with irrigation.

It was further explained that those who might wish to withdraw from the colony could have their property appraised and receive the value of it. A man was not obliged to put all his life into the enterprise. It did not cost much to join. With $10 a share might be purchased, and with another $10 a lot. A man could work on his own house—which would also be the property of the company—and be paid by the company for his work. Every man and woman able to work was guaranteed profitable employment.

An inquirer wanted to know whether, for example, a ditcher would be paid the same as a civil engineer. The chairman said the question of wages had not yet been decided. In reply to another question, he said no religious bodies would be permitted to build churches. They could build in the public hall, rent free. But supposing the hall was occupied? "Then the company would build another hall. A member speaking in reference to this subject said, the idea was to do away with all narrow, selfish sects and have one brotherhood.

As showing how widespread the interest in this movement is, the chairman remarked that parties had started, or were about to start, from Oregon, California, Colorado, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Illinois and Maine. A large club was forming in Chicago. The Maine party were building a boat, which they would take by rail to Guaymas, and make the passage thence by sea. A gentleman named Smith had gone down to investigate the scheme, for a party of forty in Humboldt would come out with him, he would deliver a lecture in Los Angeles giving the result of his observations.

"Could a family keep a Jersey cow?" No; no cows were allowed within the city limits. The corporation would supply milk and everything else. "Suppose someone should want something unreasonable. A good many cranks go to new colonies," observed one of those present. The chairman replied that such a member would be warned, and if he didn't reform would have to pack his blankets, receiving the value of his property.

"HOW ABOUT TOBACCO?" was the next asked. The chairman thought the use of the weed would not be prohibited, but a member remarked that if any one wanted to chew he would have to go outside the city limits to spit, as no tobacco would be allowed in the city. A lady member thought that the moral influence of the female colonists would soon wear the men away from such evil habits as tobacco and whiskey.

In reply to an anxious inquirer, it was explained that no saloons would be permitted

Whisky, like all other eatables and drinkables, would be controlled by the corporation and only sold at the drug store. In reply to a further question Mr. Buckner said that Mr. Owen must not drink a drink sometimes, but never got drunk.

A member called attention to the fact that, under the contract with the Mexican government, they were bound to admit to the colony a number of Mexicans—not exceeding one-fifth of the total number of colonists. This might complicate the whisky and tobacco question.

After some more desultory conversation, the meeting was adjourned, to meet on Wednesday evening next. Several new members signed the roll after the adjournment.

CATARRH.

THE TERM CATARRH IS APplied to a peculiar inflammation of the mucous

and adjacent parts, which prevails to an alarming extent and is productive of very serious consequences.

The most prominent and characteristic feature is a mucous discharge from the head, varying in its nature at different times.

In some there is an almost constant flow of

clear, acid fluid, the throat, necessitating its frequent removal by blowing the nose

or by the use of both processes.

Sometimes patients feel as though their whole head was in a state of rotteness, so great is the amount of matter discharged, and so fetid is its odor. The patient is greatly annoyed by the constant dripping into the throat of the morbid matter from the head, and as a result position naturally favors the flow downward of the head very much elevated in order to sleep with some degree of comfort.

In others a tough, viscid and offensive phlegm collects behind and above the most palate, in the passage between the throat and head, adhering to the parts with glutinous tenacity. Its lodgment embarrasses respiration and creates a sensation of irritation and uneasiness in the affected locality, which gives rise to a constant and almost irresistible desire to relieve the discomfort by drawing the mucus

into the throat, so as to eject it by the mouth.

This practice, popularly known as "hawking,"

is characteristic of catarrh, and there are barring to the one affected as it is disagreeable to those around him.

Again, the offensive matter hardens and deposits itself on the membrane in the shape of dry, hard concretions, which are discharged

by way of a notable size is expelled, on which fragments of a deep green tint. In some cases

these concretions are so large as to obstruct

the nostrils, usually requires the most careful treatment; not unfrequently they have to be torn from the membrane. Occasionally a small, but very hard and brittle, concretion is formed, which is expelled, but in these are generally traces of blood, but in some cases the blood is so abundant as to appear, being of exact shape of the membrane. This condition is indicative of ulcerat-ion. The disease is usually accompanied by a structure of the nose and produce a subsequent flattening of the organ.

GRANT IN PEACE.

By GEN. ADAM BADEAU.

No. XXIX.—THE WANDERINGS OF ULYSSES.

(Copyright, 1886.)

The modern Ulysses traveled farther than his classic namesake, but his Penelope accompanied him. They once came upon the ruins of the ancient city, and, sitting on the Italian and Sicilian shores the story of the Odyssey was told again. Mrs. Grant liked to be shown where the son of Laertes had landed, where he escaped from Calypso, and where he was rescued by Scylla or Charybdis. But the general was more curious about geography than mythology. The coasts and islands he inspected closely, but cared nothing for the fables of Homer's origin.

His history, however, interested him. He was in Rome when I talked of the forum and the capitol he replied that they seemed recent to him after Memphis and the Sphinx which he had seen. Remembrance of antiquity impressed him; but the venerable associations that scholars prize, had no charms for Grant. There was little room in his nature for sentiment, though abundant of genuine feeling.

At Hamburg they dug up the grave of a Roman soldier for the American who had fought in a region the Romans never heard of, and Grant was attentive to the coins and the weapons in the tomb, but unmoved by the display of the spectacle—the exhuming of a Roman warrior for the inspection of another still in the prime of his renown. So, on Lake Lucerne, though he was never indifferent to mountains, the railroad on the right interested him far more than the famous scenery, and he examined the highway of the Alps more carefully than the ruins of William Tell. At Capri he was interested in the Villa of the Emperor, and with me, because we insisted on visiting the cathedral. He said we had seen the cathedral and the cathedral, why were we wasting our time on any more architecture? He was indeed a little unreasonable as first as a traveler; he could not share the enthusiasms of a cathedral, why were we wasting our time on any more architecture? He was indeed a little unreasonable as first as a traveler; he could not share the enthusiasms of a cathedral, why were we wasting our time on any more architecture?

several occasions in the Chinese waters and around Birmah, Siam and Japan, there were marked failures of those compliments which were paid him everywhere else in Asia. He was then in England, but kept up a constant correspondence with him. Reading of the honors offered him in India I suggested that when he left the British dominions in the East he should request the American Minister in London to thank the government for the peculiar distinction with which he had been treated. This was his reply:

"I received your letter suggesting that I should write to the British Minister in London to thank the government for the peculiar distinction with which he had been treated. This was his reply:

CATARRH.

THE TERM CATARRH IS APplied to a peculiar disorder of the nostrils

and adjacent parts, which gives rise to an inflammation of the mucous membrane, and is productive of very serious consequences. The most prominent characteristic feature is a morbid discharge from the head,

varying in its nature at different times, and

in some there is an almost constant flow of

clear, acid fluid, but often an offensive,

purulent or mucopurulent, greenish-yellow mucus is secreted, which accumulates in the nostrils or drops into the throat, and gives rise to a constant dripping into the throat of the morbid matter from the head, and as a result the position naturally favors the flow downward, and the frequent discharge of the mucus causes a constant irritation of the throat, and in some cases the constant irritation of the throat causes a deep green tint, in some cases

these eruptions accumulate to such an extent as to frequently require a plug in the nostril, which, in time, may destroy the membrane, and the patient is obliged to lie in bed, and in some cases the constant irritation

of the throat causes a deep green tint, in some extent as to frequently require a plug in the
